Co-Presidents' Message

As many of our spring semesters draw to a close, we are struck by how we have now settled into our new reality- one that is hybrid, dynamic, and continues to be deeply challenging. We want to take a moment to reflect on how our community of clinicians met the moment of teaching and advocating during a global pandemic. We are proud to be members of this community and proud to be a part of this organization made up of committed members who support our mission each day. CLEA certainly has had a busy semester, thanks to our dedicated board and active committee members. You will read more in depth about many of our activities in this newsletter. We provide some highlights here.

First, we are thrilled to announce and welcome our two new Board members, Ronie Hochbaum (Pacific McGeorge) and Sarah Shalf (UVA) who have been elected by the CLEA Board to fill two vacancies. Congratulations Ronie and Sarah. We are excited to have you continue the work that you have already been doing on behalf of the organization. Ronie has been the fearless leader on the Newsletter Committee and Sarah has been responsible for the back office administration work on our Membership Committee along with Neha Lall.

The New Clinicians Committee has been hard at work putting together excellent programming for the New Clinicians Conference to introduce new clinicians to what we think are the best jobs around. That Committee has also been working hard on an updated version of the New Clinicians Handbook that will be available online this spring.

The Membership Committee is working closely with the Website Redesign Committee to revamp CLEA's website. We are looking forward to the website redesign and launch later this year. In connection with that, the Membership Committee will be sending you an email and following up during the conference to get all CLEA Members to update their online profile at CLEAweb.org.

The Advocacy Committee has had another busy semester. They are at the forefront of CLEA's advocacy work monitoring and participating in the ABA Section on Legal Education and Admission to the Bar. In March, they spearheaded the effort to nominate Praveen Kosuri, to the ABA Council on Legal Education. Lastly, they recently worked with ALWD to support a proposal to add legal writing instructions to 405(c).

Our Awards Committee reviewed many incredible nominations and looks forward to presenting CLEA's Outstanding Advocate for Clinical Teachers Award and the Award for Excellence in a Public Interest Case or Project to our award recipients at the annual awards lunch.

Meanwhile, CLEA's Best Practices Committee continued its Teaching Justice Webinar Series, which has contributed to inspiring and engaging clinical teachers on new and innovative ways to teach justice in our classrooms. This year the Committee hosted webinars on participatory, critical legal research, teaching under the ABA's 303 mandate, critical race lawyering, and teaching reparations. The webinars are available on CLEA's website.

Finally, we wouldn't be CLEA if we didn't make space for fun and celebration. Now with over 1,500 members, CLEA has been supporting and empowering our clinical colleagues through our programming for 30 years! To that end, CLEA is marking its 30th year by throwing itself a 30th Anniversary Party during the conference (more details inside). The party will be on Saturday, April 29 from 6:30–8:30 PM in the Vista Room on the 45th floor of the conference hotel. We hope you will make some time in your schedule to stop by and toast to thirty years of CLEA's successes in our mission to promote, advocate and support the best of clinical teaching while advancing clinical legal education that centers justice and equity for our students, ourselves, our clients and communities we serve!

While we are taking a moment to celebrate CLEA and the work we have accomplished as a community in the last 30 years, CLEA's work to advance clinical legal education and to promote justice and diversity as core values of the profession continues. Please read the committee reports that follow for an update regarding ongoing initiatives and plans. CLEA has several committees that do a range of work such as advocacy, supporting regional conferences, recognizing outstanding clinicians, student attorneys, programs and projects through the granting of annual awards, and providing teaching resources through the New Clinicians' Handbook and the Teaching Justice Webinar series. If you are not already a member, please join CLEA. Our website hosts descriptions of all of the various CLEA committees and identifies the membership of each committee - please feel free to reach out to the CLEA committee members if you are interested in learning more about the work they do for our community. If you are already a member, please be sure to renew your membership.

Our next and first in-person membership meeting in over three years will be at the Clinical Conference on Friday April 28th at 7:30 AM. The exact location will be

Fill Out Your CSALE Sub-Survey of Clinical Instructors Now!

The Center for the Study of Applied Legal Education (CSALE) is finishing up the 6th iteration of its triennial Survey of Applied Legal Education. CSALE needs your help by participating in the Sub-Survey of Clinical Instructors, which is closing in the next few weeks so we can then issue our report.

Data from the survey is critically important — faculty at over 80% of schools have relied on CSALE data in considering law clinic and field placement program design, pedagogy, and staffing, for employment negotiations, and in over 220 law review articles and books.

Every full-time law clinic and field placement instructor, regardless of title or position, should have received an email invitation (from Bob Kuehn via Qualtrics) with an individualized link to their CSALE Sub-Survey on January 20/31, with reminders on February 14, March 1, and April 4. Please fill out the survey today, which should take less than 15 minutes on your smartphone or computer, and urge your colleagues to hurry up and do the same.

If you have any questions or cannot locate your survey invitation, contact Bob Kuehn, CSALE

Vice President, at rkuehn@wustl.edu.

CLEA Committee Reports

Externships Committee

The CLEA Externship Committee is making progress on several exciting new projects. First, we are conducting our third national survey on compensated externships. For those newer to the field, in 2016, the ABA lifted its prohibition on compensated externships. We surveyed our community in 2018 and in 2020, and decided the time was ripe for another survey. Our previous findings and reports have been invaluable tools for many externship clinicians. We are eager for responses from all schools, so if you have not already done so, please complete the survey. The deadline is Friday, May 5.

The Committee has also started work on a long-planned project to create videos for field supervisor training. After an initial RFP, we have formed groups of two or three externship directors. The groups are creating short videos on topics ranging from what supervisors need to know about goal setting, how to provide clear assignments and effective feedback, how to encourage students to take initiative, and talking with students about wellness and work-life balance. We hope to have the videos completed by the beginning of the fall semester.

Late last fall, the Committee hosted a zoom meeting to discuss the ABA site visit process. We reached out to more than 40 schools with ABA site visits scheduled in the coming year, and a dozen colleagues who just completed their site visits offered their input. Participants learned where to find all the requirements and forms on the ABA website. The presentation covered SEQ questions related to Standard 304(d) specific to externships, Standard 304 (full experiential curriculum), Chapter 3 (Program of Legal Education), and other standards related to pro bono programs, part-time students, etc. We hope to continue this program annually.

Our Committee created a plan for supporting the Externship 12 conference, which will take place in 2024. The working group has pulled together materials, checklists and other resources to help the selected site (we soon anticipate an announcement from the Site Selection Committee). The "conference in a box" will help the host site jumpstart the many-faceted work of putting on a successful conference.

Finally, the Committee wants to acknowledge, with the utmost appreciation and gratitude, two members who have shown exemplary leadership not just for our committee, but for the entire externship community. Both are planning to retire in the coming year. They are Carrie Kass, Associate Professor of Law, Associate Dean of Experiential Education and Co-Director of the Center on Dispute Resolution at the School of Law, Quinnipiac University, and Meg Reuter, Clinical Professor of Law and Director of Field Placement Programs.

Website Redesign Committee

CLEA's new Website Redesign Committee is engaged in multiple exciting conversations about ways to make CLEA's website more visually interesting; easier to navigate; and as useful as possible for both existing clinicians and those seeking to enter clinical teaching. The committee has exchanged many innovative ideas and has explored possible tools to facilitate networking and engagement through the site with a website developer. The committee is currently seeking recommendations for web developers that might be able to take on the project of redesigning CLEA's website. If you have worked with a web developer that you would like to recommend, please contact Jennifer Fernandez at jennifer.fernandez@law.cuny.edu. The committee members consist of Crystal Grant, Gautam Hans, Gowri Krishna, Mike Murphy, and Reena Parikh with Jennifer Fernandez and Shanda Sibley as co-chairs.

Elections Committee

In Fall 2023, the elections committee facilitated a successful election resulting in the following new and returning Board members who started their positions on January 1, 2023: Serge Martinez (President elect), Michael Murphy (Treasurer elect), Reena Parikh (New Clinician), Alexis Karteron, Kathryn Banks, and Talia Peleg.

Committee Chair

Crystal Grant (Duke)

Best Practices in Pedagogy Committee

The Best Practices in Pedagogy Committee continues its work in several areas. The outstanding Teaching Justice webinar series, led by Laila Hlass and Allison Korn, has continued exploring the intersection of law and social justice. Some of the webinars featured over the last academic year included Participatory Scholarship Redeeming Justice featuring Rachel López (Drexel), Kempis "Ghani" Songster, and Terrell "Rell" Carter; Teaching Justice through Critical Race Lawyering featuring Erika Wilson (UNC-Chapel Hill); and Teaching Justice under the ABA's Standard 303 mandate session, taught by Carolyn Grose (Mitchell Hamline); Gautam Hans (Cornell); Renee Hatcher (UIC Law); and Elizabeth Cooper (Fordham).

We continue to work on two projects: building a repository for clinical teaching materials, which will help the community navigate existing resources and tap into new ideas; and, exploring an update to the second edition of CLEA's Building on Best Practices.

Thank you to the committee members who have contributed to these various projects and to those who give their time to the mission of Best Practices.

Brenda also testified on "Sexual Abuse in Federal Prisons" before the United States Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations United States Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs. Brenda has continued her service as Vice Chair of the UCC Building and Loan Fund.

Binny Miller (American) received the 2023 WCL Outstanding Service Award - this award recognizes a faculty member's outstanding service either outside or within the law school or university - and the 2023 American University Outstanding Service to the University Community in a Tenure-Line Appointment Award.

Emily Broad Leib (Harvard) was promoted to Faculty Director of the Center for Health Law and Policy Innovation of Harvard Law School (CHLPI). In addition to this role, Professor Broad Leib will continue to serve as Faculty Director of the Harvard Law School Food Law and Policy Clinic, which is housed within CHLPI.

Emma Scott (Harvard) was promoted to Associate Director of the Harvard Law School Food Law and Policy Clinic (FLPC). She will also continue to serve as a Clinical Instructor for FLPC.

Alberto Benitez (GW) was quoted in a Telegraph interview, discussing how prior drug use is used to deny U.S. citizenship, which did not occur after Prince Harry's drug use disclosure in a recent memoir.

Emily Benfer (GW) accepted an offer for a tenure track faculty position. In March, Professor Benfer was invited to participate in the court's Eviction Diversion Initiative Committee. The same month, she was a featured speaker at the National Low Income Housing Coalition Housing Policy Forum. In November, she was invited to join a meeting with White House officials on behalf of the Domestic Policy Council and National Economic Council. Additionally, Harvard Law School's Petrie Flom Center Bill of Health published her latest article entitled "U.S. Eviction Policy is Harming Children: The Case for Sustainable Eviction Prevention to Promote Health Equity" which describes the devastating and longterm effects of eviction on children and health equity.

Lolita Darden (GW) was featured in the Association of Black Law Alumni's Theory & Practice series to discuss intellectual property and black business. In March, Professor Darden was featured in Politico's Future in Five Friday series concerning the state of our IP system and other technology related matters. In January, she was appointed to the USPTO Patent Public Advisory Committee which consists of only nine members who advise the Director and the agency. In November, she served as a presenter at the Innovator Diversity Pilots Conference on Rectifying Missed Opportunities: Expanding the Diversity in Innovation Pledge to Law firms and Law Schools at Santa Clara University School of Law. In October, she was accepted as a member of the Giles S. Rich Inn of Court.

Carlos Teuscher (Suffolk) was appointed to the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts Standing Committee on Pro Bono Legal Services.

Kelly Vieira (Suffolk) was appointed to the Advisory Board of the Center for Antiracist Research at Boston University. Kelly serves as Director of Investigations and Outreach in our Housing Discrimination Testing Program.

Renée Gentry (GW) presented at The National Academies of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine presenting on Equity Considerations for Injury Compensation. She was quoted in a BlazeMedia article titled "We'll just turn up the heat': Republican lawmakers call out Biden admin over its broken vaccine injury program". In December, Professor Gentry was quoted in an article published by Reuters about the challenges associated with backlogged vaccine injury claims awaiting vaccine court. In November, Professor Gentry led a session in the GW Social Impact Showcase series entitled Vaccine Injury Litigation: The Safety Net Supporting National Health Policy.

Jeffrey Gutman (GW) discussed how wrongfully convicted exonerees become profit centers in his recent New York Times article, "They Were Unjustly Imprisoned, Now They're Profit Centers." In October, Professor Gutman was quoted by USA Today about the rates of people who are compensated for their time in prison after being exonerated. In September, Professor Gutman was appointed to serve on the National Registry of Exonerations as a Special Contributor. In this role, he is responsible for their coverage of compensation issues.

Ilan Friedman-Grunstein (GW) accepted a tenure-track position with the University of South Carolina to teach the Criminal Defense Clinic.

Drake Hagner (GW) presented at the Poverty Law Scholars Conference at Berkeley Law on procedural due process failures in times of crisis by exploring the unemployment benefits crisis during the COVID-19 pandemic. In September, Professor Hagner was interviewed by Wayne News Channel 15 regarding unemployment insurance fraud for claims filed during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Lula Hagos (GW) accepted an offer for a tenure track-faculty position. In February, Professor Hagos was a featured speaker at a Virtual Brown Bag Lunch Series entitled, Theory & Practice where she discussed the role of Black lawyers in expanding access to justice. In February, she presented on a panel during GW's Social Impact Showcase series titled Advocating for Dignity in Indigent Criminal Defense.

Joan Meier (GW) spoke to the San Francisco Public Press about the California bill, Piqui's Law, which would set conditions for handling child abuse and domestic violence cases. She was quoted by the Washington Post regarding a school's use of a liability waiver to ward off a lawsuit involving child sex abuse. She was also quoted in the Philadelphia Inquirer in an article about judges who award custody to parents who later murder their children.

Paulina Vera (GW) presented on a panel entitled A Conversation on Immigration Law, Policy, and Potential Avenues for Reform. In February, Professor Vera was named President-Elect of the Hispanic Bar Association of DC. In October, she moderated a panel hosted by GW's Cisneros Hispanic Leadership Institute, featuring Tino Cuellar, President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The same month, Professor Vera was a speaker on a panel titled, Latinos in the Law, hosted by GW's Latin American Law Student Association. Additionally, she was the featured speaker for a Latinx Heritage Month celebration hosted by the non-profit, Earthjustice.

Laurie Kohn (GW) helped organize and host the First Annual Mid-Atlantic Regional Clinical Conference at the law school. The conference was organized in partnership with several regional law schools in February 2023. The conference theme was Teaching, Lawyering, Supervising, and Navigating Uncertainty in a Shifting World, and more than 120 law school faculty, deans, and professional staff gathered in Washington, D.C. for the meeting. Dean Laurie Kohn cofacilitated a session at the AALS Conference entitled What a Difference a Difference Makes: Empowering Students through Self Determination Theory. She also led a fireside chat during GW's Social Impact Showcase series titled The Legacies of Family Law Clinical Education: Impact on Lives and Careers. In October, Dean Kohn co-led a session at the Midwest Clinical Conference entitled Falling with Style: The Mistakes We Make.

Together with other leaders of the New Jersey Innocence Project at Rutgers University (NJIP), Laura Cohen received the 2023 Rutgers Chancellor's Award for Diversity, Inclusion, and Civic Engagement. The NJIP is a project of the Criminal and Youth Justice Clinic, which Laura founded and directs.

Tomica Burke Saul (Rutgers) will be joining the law school as an Assistant Professor of Law and teaching in the Community and Transactional Lawyering Clinic, which provides corporate and transactional legal services to New Jersey non-profit corporations, start-up for-profit businesses, and micro-enterprises. Professor Burke Saul's scholarship explores entrepreneurship policy and economic justice, specifically for historically-underrepresented business owners. Her research considers the efficacy of using entrepreneurship as a means of community economic empowerment and self-determination among individuals affected by systemic injustices.

Kathryn A. Sabbeth (Rutgers), a well-known expert on housing and civil justice and currently Director of the Civil Legal Assistance Clinic at UNC, will join the law school as a Professor of Law with tenure (pending University approval) and will Co-Direct the Housing Justice & Tenant Solidarity Clinic. She will also teach Property and other courses on access to justice. Her current scholarship focuses on eviction courts and, more broadly, the relationship between courts and capital.

Greg Baltz (Rutgers) will join the law school as Assistant Professor of Law and will be the Co-Director of the Housing Justice & Tenant Solidarity Clinic. In clinic, Professor Baltz teaches law students to strategically employ the law in support of housing justice organizing. His research focuses on the justice gaps in our courts and agencies as well as the regulatory structures that govern housing markets. His work also investigates how the law informs, facilitates, and undermines community organizing strategies.

Ruth Anne Robbins (Rutgers) received the 2023 Thomas F. Blackwell Memorial Award for Outstanding Achievement in the Field of Legal Writing at the AALS January meeting. Presented by the Association of Legal Writing Directors and the Legal Writing Institute, the award is presented annually to a person who has made an outstanding contribution to improve the field of legal writing by demonstrating (1) an ability to nurture and motivate students to excellence; (2) a willingness to help other legal writing educators improve their teaching skills or their legal writing programs; and (3) an ability to create and integrate new ideas for teaching and motivating legal writing educators and students.

Good News: New Clinicians

Retirements

American University Washington College of Law ("WCL") reluctantly announces the retirement of Robert Dinerstein and Ann Shalleck. Bob and Ann have been instrumental in the development of clinical legal pedagogy, having written numerous journal articles, co-edited books, and co-written books that are foundational to our work. They have planned countless conferences and conference sessions and mentored countless clinicians. They have made innumerable contributions to clinical legal education.

Robert Dinerstein is retiring after 40 years of teaching in WCL's Clinical Program. During that time, Bob served as the law school's Acting Dean (2020-21), Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (1997-2004), Associate Dean for Experiential Education (2012-2018), and Director of the Clinical Program (1988-96 and 2008-2018). He founded WCL's Disability Rights Law Clinic in 2005 and has directed the clinic for past 18 years. He has also developed and taught both a seminar and a 1L elective course in Disability Rights, Interviewing and Counseling, and a seminar on the Rights of Civilly Institutionalized Persons. In 1994, President Clinton appointed Bob to serve on the President's Committee on Mental Retardation (now called the President's Committee on People with Intellectual Disabilities), on which he served until 2001. From 2018-2021, he was a commissioner on the ABA Commission on Disability Rights, and from 2021-the present, he has served as the ABA Section of Civil Rights and Social Justice's liaison to the Commission. Bob has won numerous WCL and American University Awards for his teaching, service, and scholarship, and he received the William Pincus Award in 2010.

Ann Shalleck is retiring after 39 years of teaching. She founded and directs the Women and the Law Program, the Women and International Law Program, and the Women and the Law Clinic. In addition to directing the clinic, she has taught Family law, Feminist Theory, and a seminar on Legal Theory and Legal Pedagogy. Ann also taught in our Intellectual Property and Public Interest Law Clinic. Ann has received numerous awards for her teaching, service, and scholarship, including the CLEA Outstanding Advocate for Clinical Teachers Award in 2009. She also received the William Pincus Award in 2015.

Howard Rockman (Illinois - Chicago) will be stepping down as the Director of the Patent Clinic. He will continue to teach Patent-related courses at UIC Law.

Two beloved members of the Rutgers clinical faculty are stepping down this year after extraordinary tenures at the university. Distinguished Clinical Professor of Law Robert Holmes, who founded and directed the Community and Transactional Lawyering Clinic for more than a quarter-century, also served as the Deputy Director of Clinical Programs in the Law School's Newark location. Before joining the Rutgers faculty, Bob was the highest-ranking African-American in state government when he served as Assistant Commissioner of the New Jersey State Department of Community Affairs and the first Black partner at one of New Jersey's major law firms.

After a clinical teaching career spanning thirty years and three clinics, Professor Anne Mullan Mallgrave will retire from full-time teaching in June. Anne first joined the Rutgers Law faculty in Camden in 1993 as the co-teacher of the Civil Practice Clinic. She subsequently launched both the Mortgage Foreclosure and the Housing Advocacy Clinics. Anne also directed the law school's Domestic Violence Pro Bono Project. Like Bob, Anne has mentored and inspired many students and clinical faculty members during her time at Rutgers.

Both will be greatly missed!

Rememberances

Bea Moulton (UC Law San Francisco) was one of the founders of modern clinical legal education and a prior recipient of the William Pincus Award. With Gary Bellow, she co-authored The Lawyering Process, the groundbreaking 1978 text which did much to legitimate clinical teaching and training as essential to a sound law school education. Before attending law school at Stanford, she was a civil rights activist and a member of the first group of Peace Corps volunteers. Her first position after law school was as a 1969 Reginald Heber Smith Fellow, where she worked closely with Gary at USC Law School and the Western Center on Law & Poverty in Los Angeles. In mid-career, she was the head of training for the Legal Services Corporation. She spent the last two decades of her career as a Professor of Law at UC Hastings (now UC Law SF), where she wrote the proposal to the California State Legislature that resulted in a $1 million permanent augmentation to the school's annual budget to enhance and expand the school's clinical education curriculum. In addition to her professional career, Bea was an accomplished painter, guitarist, and folk singer. Bea died at age 83 on October 27, 2022, from cancer.

What is CLEA?

More than 25 years ago, clinical legal educators perceived the need to establish an organization that was separate from the AALS Clinical Section. The Clinical Legal Education Association was incorporated in 1992, in part to enable clinicians to act swiftly and independently – something the Clinical Section cannot do because of its status within the AALS. Another goal in creating CLEA was to broaden our community by allowing membership for many individuals who do not meet the eligibility requirements of the Clinical Section. CLEA and the Clinical Section do not compete; rather, the two organizations collaborate and their interests often overlap. CLEA urges clinical teachers to belong to both entities. CLEA is currently engaged in activities such as:

- Advocating on behalf of its members with the ABA
 Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar to further excellence in legal education;
- Supporting individual schools, programs, and teachers who face political interference and other threats;
- Working with the Clinical Section and NYU Law School to publish the peer-reviewed Clinical Law Review;
- Presenting the biennial New Clinicians Conference and other programs specifically designed for new clinical teachers at regional and other conferences;
- Supporting amicus briefs on topics important to clinical legal education;
- Commissioning and publishing Best Practices for Legal Education: A Vision and a Roadmap (Stuckey, et al, 2007), and supporting the publication of Building on Best Practices: Transforming Legal Education in a Changing World (Maranville, Bliss, Kaas, and Sedillo Lopez, et al, 2015).
